MCCU Donates to Marshall Area Community Services

People helping people – it's the credit union philosophy and Marshall Community Credit Union is no exception. Through the months of November and December, MCCU staff members collected a large number of items for donation to Marshall Area Community Services (MACS).

For over 60 years, MACS helps area families with emergency needs. While this time of year MACS is busy with their holiday adopt-a-family programs, collecting and distributing donated gifts, and coordinating groceries for holiday meals, MACS provides assistance throughout the year. Their mission is to help people with items that many couldn't imagine going without: food, clothing, keeping utilities turned on, school supplies, and much more.

"Since MACS indicated that they get less donations for children ages 13-18, this year MCCU chose to help supplement the baskets for those families with teenagers. As always, it was both fun and rewarding to participate in this community activity." noted Katie Schook, Executive Assistant at MCCU.
