Credit Union

MCCU's "CU in School" Kicks Off November 2nd

After a year away due to the pandemic, Marshall Community Credit Union (MCCU) is excited to resume their student-run credit union branch program: "CU in School."

MCCU's CU in School program is designed to teach young people the importance of saving money by making it easy, accessible and fun. Money management skills are learned by students beginning in kindergarten and continuing throughout high school years. By participating in the program, students learn valuable money management skills as well as gain an understanding of how an actual credit union is operated. Students are encouraged to participate in the program by either opening an account (with the ability to make weekly deposits and earn incentives) and/or working at their school's branch as a student volunteer.

MCCU's CU in School program includes the Student-Run Branch (SRB) at Marshall High School (MHS). The MHS SRB is now open every Friday during each lunch period for all students, faculty and staff.

The remaining seven CU in School branches will start up the week of November 1st.

- Marshall Middle School – Tuesday, November 2nd
- Gordon Elementary School – Tuesday, November 2
- Harper Creek Middle School – Wednesday, November 3rd
- Wattles Park Elementary - Wednesday, November 3rd
- Mar Lee School – Thursday, November 4th
- Hughes Elementary School – Thursday, November 4th
- Walters Elementary School – Thursday, November 4th

The ability to make in-person deposits will be available every other week at the grade school branches. In addition, students can make deposits into their school's secure drop box, located in/near the school office, at any time during school hours. Those deposits will be taken to the credit union on a weekly basis.
